Dear Senators Kerry and Grassley:

On behalf of the under signed organizations, we are pleased to offer our support of S. 3289, the Children's Mental Health Accessibility Act. We applaud your bipartisan commitment to ensuring children and adolescents have access to a full array of mental health services that they require to effectively address their individual behavioral needs and avoid institutional care.

Through this legislation, an important demonstration project that nine states have been engaged in with the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) for the past five years will be made permanent. This demonstration project provides children and adolescents community alternatives to psychiatric residential treatment facility (PRTF) care using a current Medicaid waiver option, the 1915c home and community-based services waiver. The project has successfully showcased the ability of states to address the mental health needs of children and adolescents safely, effectively and efficiently with intensive home and community-based services in lieu of placing them in the institutional setting of a PRTF. The demonstration project has achieved positive outcomes for the children being served with intensive home and community-based services, including maintaining or improving their functional status. Additionally, this provision of care is cost effective with these home-based interventions averaging a third of the cost of the institutional settings.

The Children's Mental Health Accessibility Act is a positive step in expanding Medicaid access to comprehensive home-and community based services for children and adolescents requiring a PRTF level of care. The legislation also is a meaningful step in upholding the dignity of individuals with intellectual disabilities. It does so by replacing the term mental retardation with intellectual disability in the Social Security Act.

We appreciate your leadership on these important issues and look forward to working with you and your staff to enact S. 3289 this year.
