AAHD Frederick J. Krause Scholarship on Health and Disability 2017-18

The mission of the American Association on Health and Disability (AAHD) is to contribute to national, state, and local efforts to promote health and wellness in people with disabilities and identify effective intervention strategies that reduce health disparities between people with disabilities and the general population. AAHD is committed to community inclusion and full accessibility for people with disabilities. AAHD accomplishes its mission through research, education and advocacy at the national, state and community level.

In 2008, AAHD launched the Disability and Health Journal (DHJO), the first peer reviewed, Medline indexed, scientific, scholarly and multidisciplinary journal that focuses on health promotion and wellness for people with disabilities. In 2009, AAHD created the AAHD Scholarship Program, which supports students with disabilities pursuing higher education. Preference is given to students who plan to pursue undergraduate/graduate studies in the field of public health, health promotion, disability studies, to include disability policy and disability research. Royalties from the DHJO and private donations help to support the AAHD Scholarship Program.

Funds are limited and scholarships are competitive. Scholarships are limited to under $1,000. The AAHD Board of Directors Scholarship Committee evaluates each applicant and makes a decision in December of each calendar year. The 2017-18 AAHD Scholarship Award will be awarded in late January - early February, 2018. It is the discretion of the Scholarship Committee to determine how many scholarships will be awarded each year and the amount of each scholarship.

The AAHD board and staff are excited to be able to offer this program and support the efforts and dedication of students who have chosen to pursue higher education in the disability and health fields.
