AAHD COVID-19 & DISABILITY SURVEY: KEY FINDINGS ON PANDEMIC INFORMATION & IMPACT FOR PERSONS WITH EMOTIONAL, PSYCHOLOGICAL, OR MENTAL HEALTH DISABILITIES

Introduction

People with disabilities experience unique risks during disasters, epidemics, and pandemics that can impact health and health care. Yet, we do not know the full impact of COVID-19 on people with disabilities.

Research Approach

AAHD conducted the COVID-19 and Disability Survey between April 17 and May 1, 2020, and 2,469 adults with disabilities responded. Adults with emotional, psychological, or mental health disabilities made up 11% of the sample (273 persons).

Main Findings- COVID-19 Information & Impact

Ranking of Sources of COVID-19 Information

- 30% of respondents said Television was the most important source of information, followed by the Internet (29%), and Health Care Providers (19%).
- The Internet (28%), Television (20%), and Social Media (19%) were the second-most important sources.
- Social Media (15%), Relatives (15%), Television (14%), and Health Care Providers (14%) were selected as the third-most important sources of information about COVID-19.
- Future messaging should use Television and Health Care Providers to provide information.

Following COVID-19 Recommendations

- 94% of respondents were following COVID-19 public health recommendations.
- Only 6% of respondents said they were not following COVID-19 recommendations, but that still means some respondents were potentially endangering others!

COVID-19 Testing

- 5% of respondents had received a test for COVID-19.
- 95% had not received a test!
- Top reasons for not getting a test when needed: No Test Available (13%), Other (10%), and Cost (4%).

Anxiety & Depression During the Pandemic

- 79% of respondents feeling anxious or depressed had emotional support or services.
- 21% of respondents were without emotional support or services.

Conclusion

- Population-based research is critically needed to fully document these issues.
